The University of Connecticut Recognizes IMCORP as Top Startup Company

IMCORP recognized at the University of Connecticut's inaugural Economic Benefits of Innovation ceremony as the institution's Top Startup Company.

MANCHESTER, CT 5/20/2012: IMCORP, the leading global provider of the Factory Grade<sup>SM</sup> test for power cable, is proud to be recognized by the University of Connecticut as its Top Startup Company. Founded in 1997, IMCORP's unprecedented diagnostic performance has fueled double digit growth in the utility industry, a major share of collector system commissioning at renewable energy sites across North America, and expansion of business onto four continents. IMCORP would like to recognize the symbiosis with UConn that has made this growth possible: 34 percent of their employees are UConn graduates, and the company continues to hire.

About IMCORP:

IMCORP's technology improves all citizens' quality of life by enhancing the reliability of electric power delivered to them by means of underground power cables. To date, their testing has saved 21 million feet of cable from being disposed of unnecessarily. Find out more at www.imcorp.com.
